

Statement of purpose

I am a Nepalese student looking for self fulfillment and success in life. For that reason I have chosen to apply to the Bachelors in Culinary management course.

I have decided to study on this area because when I was in my higher school I was asked about what I would like to be on the future and my answer used to be a chef. I have always dreamed of being known for something important, something that would make a difference in everyone's routine, even if it meant a typical meal or a box of delicious cookies to cheer someone up. But most of all it had to be something that would defy my creativity and allow it to be boundless, in order that I would forever feel passionate and enthusiastic about my work. All along culinary arts were present in my life, in myself. I always feel happy while cooking either it's for me or for others and I love to give good hospitality to the guests who are invited at my house.

I have chosen science stream after my S.L.C because to make the habit of reading and working hard during my higher education. After my board examination I had decided to learn bachelors in hospitality management to make my career in restaurant line. After that I thought of joining an NGO i.e ..."Paropakar sanstha" with the project "curry without worry". I volunteered there, made meals for orphans and disabled people. The Sanstha is located at Basantapur. It took about one and a half year for me to find out what I am interested in. Finally, I decided to take hospitality management as my course which consists advanced culinary arts. After that I told my dad that I want to go abroad to study and get international degree in this course because international degree is more valued. And my dad joined me in a cooking class too.

Today I can finally say for sure that my dream is to be a chef and have my future as a leader in food service and hospitality industries. I want to open a restaurant in my motherland and work hard. Make many international and unique food items which people would love to taste again and again. Since my talent and satisfaction rely more on cooking different kind of vegetarian cuisine, pastries and deserts. I often feel motivated by chefs like Gordon Ramsey, Jamie Oliver and Pastry chef Bartolo Valasto. However, nowadays I aspire much more as I see myself in the future managing a restaurant.

I have chosen to study abroad because I believe that the English language is one of the most important means of communication in which every industry and as a result I consider that it is the best option to reach out for national and especially international attention to the projects. I think U.S.A is best for me because in Nepal there are only 5 Universities where many students come for admission and we get problem in it. In context U.S.A has over 3000 universities due to which I won't have problem in admission. In Nepal practical are done less and they give more focus to theoretical study whereas in U.S.A both practical and theoretical studies are done in equal amount. And U.S degrees are recognized throughout the world for their excellence educational system.

I have chosen XXXX because it offers an alternative path to broaden our skills and advance our careers in a world class academic environment. And the university have advanced culinary arts course which I want to study. I have even met the requirements of the university. The university is located in Virginia, nicknamed "Old Dominion, Mother of state with lots of natural beauty. There are beautiful places like Buckroe Beach, Great falls national park, Great Dismal swamp, The Blue Ridge Park Way, Civil War Battlefield, Mechums River etc".

Some of my hobbies are cooking, singing, listening to music, playing basketball and helping the orphans and disabled peoples. I have always been a good student with the help of my parents, who taught me how to study properly and my teachers with whom I co-operated through my higher education. I can definitely see my work being valued and appreciated in my further education, at university. Challenges do not make my back down, nor quit either I set my goals and I reach them because I do not like regrets. Therefore, I do know how to recognize an opportunity and if one is given to me I surely will not waste it.

I trust that this course will be the right beginning of my successful career.

Your Sincerely
